The Faculty of Nursing is fortunate to have our own Clinical Therapist, Laura Little, MSW, RSW available for students in the BScN program. Laura works solely with nursing and medical students, so she understands the specific pressure points of being in a professional nursing program. Laura provides confidential mental health counselling, group sessions, consultations, referrals, and support at no cost to students.

When should I seek professional support?

Attending university is a life change and can present challenges. Outside of academic pressures, students may have to deal with stresses related to:

- Physical or mental illness (depression, anxiety, disordered eating, suicidal thoughts)
- Family issues/conflict
- Concerns around substance use
- Relationship issues/end of important relationships
- Illness or death of a loved one/grief
- Living away from home/loneliness
- Processing distressing events- current or past (abuse- verbal, emotional, physical, sexual)
- Financial stress

Sometimes coping with one or more of these stresses can overwhelm our regular coping skills (things like getting social support from loved ones and friends, problem solving and planning, tolerating distress and regulating our emotions, spiritual coping, and healthy distractions like hobbies and movement). The university offers a range of services to support students' mental health including therapy groups, TAO modules and coaching, single session drop-in, and short-term counselling to currently enrolled students.

How do I connect with Student Health, Counselling & Wellness?

If you have decided you need some professional support, you can register with us online, in person or over the telephone. You will be given intake, consent and confidentiality forms to complete.

- email: scc@uwindsor.ca
- in person: CAW Student Centre 2nd floor, room 293
- via telephone: 519-253-3000 x4616

If the appointment is urgent, we ask students to please call or come into the office instead of emailing.

For more information about location and all the services offered, please visit the Student Counselling Centre website.

We offer single session appointments, therapy groups for specific issues (anxiety, depression, relationships, ADHD, etc.) and/or initial consultations to assess your concerns and develop a plan using our stepped care model.

If you are concerned about your own or another person's safety, including if you are experiencing thoughts of suicide without a clear commitment to safety, please IMMEDIATELY contact one of the following: Talk Suicide Canada 1-833-456-4566, or the local Community Crisis Centre 519-973-4435 if you are in Windsor or 9-1-1.

STUDENT ACCESSIBILITY SERVICES

Our Role on Campus

To serve students with various documented disabilities including, but not limited to:

- Deaf/Hard-of-Hearing
- Low Vision/Blind
- Mobility Impairments
- Chronic Medical Conditions
- Learning Disabilities/ADD/ADHD
- Acquired Brain Injury
- Mental Health Disabilities
- Temporary Disabilities

Student Accessibility Services Process

Students with disabilities who require academic accommodation must complete the intake process with Student Accessibility Services (SAS).

<https://olympic.accessiblelearning.com/UWindsor/> After meeting with an advisor and registering with SAS, you will request your accommodation for each course and discuss your accommodation needs with your course professor(s) as early in the term as possible. Students need to register with SAS every semester. Further information about documentation requirements and policies and procedures is available here:

<http://www.uwindsor.ca/studentaccessibility/>.

You can email: sas@uwindsor.ca if you need more information about any of the information listed below

Students who are transferring from another institution to continue their studies at the University of Windsor must provide documentation and register with SAS as soon as possible. In the meantime, reach out to your previous institution for your medical documentation as it will be needed at the University of Windsor. Advisors here are not able to reach out on your behalf.

Having the medical documentation will speed up the process of registering your academic accommodation here.

Academic Accommodations

Academic accommodation consists of arrangements that allow a student with a disability a fair opportunity to engage in academic activities and fulfill essential course and program requirements.

Accommodation does not remove essential requirements of a course or program. It does not fundamentally alter the content of exams, standards for assigning grades, or requirements that students independently demonstrate their knowledge of course material.

- Academic Accommodations are directly related to a student's functional limitation
- SAS accommodates students in the classroom as well as when writing exams.
