Position # 002560LT9TI-2024-CS

The University of Windsor's School of Computer Science, in the Faculty of Science seeks applications for a nine-month Limited-term Teaching Intensive position commencing as early as August 15, 2024.

The School of Computer Science consists of 31 faculty members, 10 support staff, over 900 undergraduate students, and approximately 700 graduate students. The School offers a wide range of Graduate and Undergraduate degree and certificate programs. For further information about the School of Computer Science, visit our website at <http://www.uwindsor.ca/cs>.

The successful candidate is expected to teach up to 8 courses a year at the undergraduate or graduate level, supervise student projects, and participate in various service roles to support curriculum development, recruitment and student success.

The successful candidate must have:

- a PhD degree in Computer Science (or closely related field as deemed appropriate by the Appointments Committee) by the date of appointment;
- post-secondary teaching experience in CS (or IT), preferably with demonstrated experience in a similar teaching and learning environment at the university level;
- evidence of teaching effectiveness and versatility, supported with independent evidence such as teaching awards/recognition, student survey/scores, teaching certification(s), course development, etc.;
- evidence of successful student supervision, with a preference for demonstrated high-impact training practices such as facilitating work-integrated learning practices and experiential learning; and
- Strong communication skills in English, as well as strong interpersonal skills.

Preferred qualifications:

- Preference will be given to candidates who complement the teaching needs of the School at the time of hiring; courses may include graduate and undergraduate topics in Databases, Web and distributed programming, as well as computing concepts.
- Experience with mentoring and teaching in multicultural settings;
- Recent and relevant experience or engagement with industry on academic projects;
- Demonstrated record of service to academic and professional communities; and
- Experience teaching large (>100) classes.

This hire aligns with the bold imperatives of the University of Windsor strategic plan, Aspire: Together for Tomorrow, ratified Spring 2023. The University embraces a people-first philosophy grounded in a culture of academic excellence and deep belonging. Among key strategic priorities are advancing the journey towards truth and reconciliation; building a just, equitable, diverse, and inclusive university; ensuring a high-quality teaching, learning, and student experience; engaging in impactful research, scholarship, and creative activity; fostering a safe, welcoming, and sustainable campus; and engaging in local and global partnerships. The University has already made significant strides on many of these key files, and we are seeking applicants interested in working alongside us to advance them even further. Driven by the University's commitment to anti-racism, the Black Studies Institute was established in 2023 supported by a historic cohort hiring initiative that has brought thirteen Black scholars to UWindsor across several of our faculties. The recent cohort of new faculty joining the University (over 50) is among the most diverse in our history.

Our campus is situated on the traditional territory of the Three Fires Confederacy of First Nations: the Ojibwa, the Odawa, and the Potawatomi. We are making steady progress on the Indigenization of academic programming, an Indigenous Strategic plan, and a cohort hire of Indigenous faculty in 2018-19 followed by additional hiring. Our students mirror the extraordinary cultural richness of our region, one of the most diverse in all of Canada. And we have strong global partnerships and commitments, which are reflected in the increasing number of graduate and undergraduate students we attract from across the world. The University is a signatory to the Scarborough Charter, participates in the Federal 50/30 Challenge, and endorses the Government of Canada's Dimensions Charter.

The University of Windsor is a Canadian public, comprehensive research university enrolling over 16,000 students, including 5700 graduate students. It offers more than 280 academic programs and certificates, including 70 master's and doctoral degrees across its nine faculties: Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences; Business; Education; Engineering; Graduate Studies; Human Kinetics; Law; Nursing; and Science. It also houses a medical program through the Schulich School of Medicine and Dentistry at Western University. Tenured and tenure-track faculty number about 600.

Application Requirements

- a letter of application, including a statement confirming eligibility to work in Canada;
- a curriculum vitae;
- a one-page statement of commitment to Equity, Diversity, Inclusion, Decolonization and Indigenization;
