WELCOME TO WINDSOR!

Introductory Remarks

Rob Gordon

President, University of Windsor

Theresa Sims

Indigenous Knowledge Holder and
Indigenous Culture and Language
Specialist, and the Inaugural
Indigenous Storyteller, City of Windsor

First steps can feel like this ...

A close-up photograph of a person's legs and feet. The person is standing on a white, reflective surface. The legs are positioned slightly apart, and the feet are flat on the ground. The skin is a warm, brownish tone. A semi-transparent grey rectangular box is overlaid across the middle of the image, containing white text.

... but you might want to think of them like this.
