Request for Withholding a Major Paper/ Thesis/ Dissertation

Occasionally, it may be necessary to withhold the thesis, major paper, or dissertation from public circulation, especially where the student's interests (e.g., patent rights) would be jeopardized by publication. In such cases, the document may be temporarily withheld from the public domain (e.g. online publishing, distribution of bound copies to the department and/or Leddy library). Such delay in circulation may be requested for six months without cause being given, and an additional period of six months with good cause.
