Faculty advisors may recommend particular courses to develop the skills necessary for thesis work. After completion of the courses, the focus shifts to the thesis, which is an independent research project conducted in consultation with an advisor and thesis committee.

Course selections and course changes must be made in consultation with a faculty advisor (temporary or permanent).

Students accepted directly into the calendar year will proceed towards the degree by achieving at least a B average in all courses. Students have the option of taking one graduate course outside the department but approval must be granted by the Graduate Committee beforehand.

Students are not permitted to take more than three (3) courses per term.

Please indicate which option you will pursue:
