

University of Windsor

Policy Title: Faculty of Law Grading Policy

Policy Number: Law_11

Date Established: June 6, 1990

Office with Administrative Responsibility: Associate Dean, Academic

Approver: Faculty Council

Revision Date(s): "The Faculty of Law's grading policy was recommended in the Report of the Special Committee on Grade Distribution Policy dated June 6, 1990. The report was presented to Faculty Council on September 14 1990 and adopted with minor revisions. The Policy was further amended pursuant to a Report of the Special Marks Committee to Consider Aspects of the Current Grading Policy dated February 18, 1993 and adopted at Faculty Council on April 14, 1993. Minor amendments September 2013. Further amended by Faculty Council November 23, 2020.

Policy Statement

Mandatory Average Policy

All courses, with the exceptions noted below, will be graded according to a mandatory average range of 73-76.4 percent (namely, the 'B' range).

For courses of 25 or fewer students, and/or for courses that are primarily experiential or clinical, and/or for courses that are primarily assessed on the basis of a paper (i.e., a course in which the student submits a research paper worth at least 50% of the final grade in that course), the mandatory average range for these courses will be 73-79.4 percent (namely, the B to B+ range).

The mandatory class average policy will not apply to grades of 10 or fewer students, as per existing policy.

Procedures

Instructors are to allocate raw grades to students' assignments or exams. The class average for the final grades (not each component of the course) is then calculated.

Where the class average is outside of the mandatory average range, each student in the class is adjusted up or down by an equivalent numeric factor (in other words, by adding or subtracting a number) to bring the class average within the mandatory average range.

Where in the mandatory range a class average should fall is a matter of discretion for the instructor, taking into account the overall performance of the class, the extent of the adjustment up or down, and the relative strength of the class vis-à-vis previous groups of students.

The mandatory average does not apply to mid-term grades in full-year courses; however, instructors should release a class average when providing those grades.

Review By: November 2023

Appendices: None

Cross References: Senate Policy on Grading and Calculation of Averages