an interest in
PALLIATIVE CARE

PARTNERSHIPS

The Queen Elizabeth II Scholars program is a partnership with academic and community leaders in hospice/palliative care. It provides mentorships, experiential learning opportunities and community engagement activities for scholars and interns.

The emphasis is on promoting shared excellence and international leadership in palliative care delivery through research and knowledge translation across disciplines, universities, hospices, and communities.

BUILDING INTERNATIONAL PALLIATIVE CARE

All individuals should have access to high quality, end-of-life care that reflects their needs and preferences. This innovative international project addresses best practices in palliative care and the common end-of-life needs identified by Canada and the United Kingdom.

Leveraging the shared scholarship and community practices of both countries has great potential to improve palliative care interventions, promote research partnerships, as well as increase the quality, delivery, and funding for palliative care in Canada and the UK.

UNIVERSITY OF WINDSOR

We are a comprehensive, student-centred university that fosters an atmosphere of close co-operation between faculty, students, and our community partners, creating a unifying atmosphere of excellence to encourage lifelong learning, teaching, research and discovery.

KEELE UNIVERSITY

Keele is the largest campus-based university in the UK. With an emphasis on interprofessional education in the health sciences, Keele is closely affiliated with area community hospices, hospitals, community palliative care programs and long-term care facilities.

The Canadian Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Scholarships (QES) program is managed through a unique partnership of Universities Canada, the Rideau Hall Foundation (RHF), Community Foundations of Canada (CFC) and Canadian universities. This program is made possible with financial support from the Government of Canada, provincial governments and the private sector.
