DEAR VIEWER

This issue of VIEW provides me with an opportunity to thank the many, many people who contribute to the University of Windsor. Our Annual Giving Program stands as a centerpiece of the commitment of our alumni and friends to the University. Year in and year out, these gifts provide much-needed student financial aid, and enrich the education, research and recreational environment of our campus. Beyond the Annual Giving Program, we benefit from the support of those who have given to scholarships, our endowment and capital projects such as our Medical Education Building.

Each and every donor is adding conviction to the University of Windsor's reputation as a place where people from all walks of life can find new levels of personal achievement, and a place that is taking action on what our communities and society expects of us. In my role I have the privilege of speaking to many people about the successes and aspirations of the University. I do so knowing that each and every donor helps my words ring true.

I also want to thank the many staff, students, and volunteers who put their energy into spreading the message about the University of Windsor during the Annual Giving Program. Their enthusiasm is vitally important to all of us.

I want to return to what I referred to as the aspirations of the University of Windsor. Our University, like others, has a duty to do the best it can in education, research and service to society. Beyond this somewhat universal reason for being, however, there are things that are unique to us and that we pride ourselves on. Our academic and research programs, our community, our partnerships, and our alumni all give us a distinctive palette from which to create a vision for our future... our aspirations. In its simplest terms, a strategic plan should state what these aspirations are and what we will do to fulfill them. During the fall of 2009, we will be embarking on a process to identify those things that we will commit to doing to make the University of Windsor a place in which we all have even greater pride. It will be process driven by consultation – by the consultations I have had over the past year across the campus, with alumni, and across the community, and by consultations that are now beginning. You can be a part of it. Log on to www.uwindsor.ca/takingaction and find out more. You can tell us what you think the University of Windsor should aspire to be.

There is a direct link between aspirations and giving. Everyone who gives to the University of Windsor should be able to see how in some way, great or small, they contribute to fulfilling what we say we can do. On behalf of the University of Windsor, I thank all of you for what has been accomplished and for what will be achieved in the future.

RESEARCH

IN THE STARS

BY STEPHEN FIELDS

The stars must have been in perfect alignment for Charles Malone on July 20, 1976.

That's the day when Viking 1 became the first unmanned spacecraft to make a completely successful landing on Mars. It is the same day that Malone came into the world, only to grow up and eventually be employed by the agency responsible for that very mission.

These days, Malone, who was born and raised in Windsor and graduated from UWindsor in 2003 with a PhD in physics, spends his time working at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, California. There, he contributes to the analysis of data transmitted back over millions of miles from spacecraft that have travelled to Jupiter, Saturn, and their moons, trying to understand what he refers to as the "space weather" in the atmospheres surrounding those planets.

A key component of his work involves trying to comprehend how energy is transmitted in those atmospheres. He says part of NASA's research goals are to understand the sun's effects on the solar system, as well as the fundamental physical processes of outer planetary atmospheres, to predict the extreme and dynamic conditions in space and to pave the way for future space explorations.

Io, for instance, is one of Jupiter's 63 moons and it spews sulphuric gases from active volcanoes into the atmosphere, giving off energy and generating sulphuric acid on Europa, a neighbouring moon. Electrons from Jupiter's plasma torus, the cloud of ionized gas that encircles the planet, strike sulphur and oxygen atoms and excite them, causing them to emit energy in the form of light.

Back in Malone's lab, data and models are used to interpret observations from spacecraft such as the Voyager, Hubble Space Telescope, as well as the Galileo and Cassini missions. He says he is interested in knowing how much energy is being transmitted, and also how much energy is being left in the atmospheres.

"HOW ENERGY IS BEING DUMPED IN THE ATMOSPHERE AFFECTS A LOT OF THINGS. SATELLITES CAN BE KNOCKED OUT OF COMMISSION AND POWER OUTAGES CAN RESULT. THEY CAN HAVE PROFOUND EFFECTS ON PEOPLE." Charles Malone PhD '03

"It's a multi-faceted approach to understanding how the solar system works," says Malone. He adds: "How energy is being dumped in the atmosphere affects a lot of things. Satellites can be knocked out of commission and power outages can result. Even though these things seem out of reach for the average lay person, they can have profound effects on people, so it definitely relates to our own world -- the Northern Lights are a fantastic visual example of these atmospheric interactions."

Malone said it was while he was working as an undergraduate with his mentor Dr. Bill McConkey, physics professor emeritus at UWindsor, when it occurred to him that finding employment someday with the space agency was not a far-fetched idea.

"He was a fantastic influence," he says of McConkey. "He was a great role model. He has a certain way about him that just lends itself to success. He always had a great ability to put things into perspective."

Malone, whose wife Heather (Seanor) earned an MA in English from UWindsor in 2001, still collaborates with McConkey, a world-renowned physicist who has conducted experiments on a variety of gases that make up the atmosphere of our galaxy's largest planet and moons.

McConkey and his students -- some, who like Malone, have gone on to work for NASA -- inject various gases that include sulphur into a complex experimental vacuum system, hit them with an electron beam and examine the light that's emitted by splitting it up into its various wavelengths.

"We're just trying to help them to try to make sense of what they see," says the soft-spoken McConkey, who was named to the Order of Ontario in 2008 and is also a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

The professor emeritus says his work is just a small portion of a broader attempt to advance the understanding of our universe, but not an insignificant one.

"Our contribution is a tiny component of the larger picture, but every little bit counts," he says. ▀

JOE MIMRAN – A FASHION ENTREPRENEUR WHOM ALFRED SUNG CALLS “PROBABLY THE SMARTEST MAN I KNOW” – GOT A MOST UNLIKELY LESSON IN THE ART OF MOTIVATING EMPLOYEES WHILE STUDYING AT UWINDSOR.

Mimran BComm '76, the Joe behind the Loblaw's stores line of Joe Fresh fashion, creator of Club Monaco and Sung's long-time business partner, recalls his professor Bill Arison, a production manager at Hiram Walker at the time, repeatedly telling students: “All you've got to remember is when you come into the office, you just pat everybody on the popo and everything will be tickety boo.”

“I thought, I can't believe I'm paying for this,” Mimran says.

But then he went into business and realized the wisdom in Arison's words. Mimran acknowledges following that advice throughout his illustrious career.

The man hailed as “brilliant” by Fashion Television's Jeanne Beker, a “superstar fashion entrepreneur” by Profit magazine and “at the forefront of the Canadian fashion industry” by Roots co-founder Michael Budman, is not one to live in the past. Mimran is the living embodiment of fashion-forward; he prefers to look ahead in life.

Looking back though, he says there are certain lessons that remain from influential people who stood out during his “grueling” 11-month, fast-track Bachelor of Commerce program at UWindsor.

Accounting Professor Dave Wilson provided a “good grounding” in the subject, says Mimran. He says he also benefited greatly from his business strategy course. It included modeling exercises in which students would analyze such strategies as injecting more capital into a business to see how it would perform. “To this day, those lessons still resonate,” he says.

Mimran helped repay his alma mater in 1998 by helping kick-start a $3.6-million fundraising effort for UWindsor's Great Lakes Environmental Research Centre. The then-president of Club Monaco helped stage a photo opportunity at the floor-to-ceiling atrium of his company's office in downtown Toronto with former Ontario premiers David Peterson, Bob Rae and Bill Davis. All of them were wearing leather bomber jackets provided by Mimran.

He says he became involved because Club Monaco's self-sustaining ecosystem in the atrium had been attracting so much interest in Canada and the U.S. Mimran adds he dined with Peterson this summer and the former Liberal premier remembered the moment.

Among the characteristics that define Mimran are his integrity and his unsullied sense of brand. He says that if “you control your brand, you control your destiny. Brand is a lot like ego; if you don't have integrity of brand, you have nothing.”

Mimran acknowledges that some of his measures to ensure the purity of his brand at Club Monaco were “almost draconian”. He actually instructed new staff members exactly how to cut their hair.

However, he says it was important that people knew from the outset exactly what the brand was. At the time he started Club Monaco in 1984, he says Canadian fashion outlets were all importing their stock from the U.S. He was convinced, however, that Canadian consumers could support a homegrown quality brand.

Well before he founded Club Monaco, Mimran had a flair for entrepreneurship. When he was 14, he and his brother Saul started a student discount card business. Four years later, Joe was running an art gallery in Toronto while holding down two other jobs.

With Club Monaco successfully established by 1995, he launched Caban, a lifestyle home products and fashion concept. He sold both brands to Ralph Lauren Polo Corp. five years later for U.S.$52.5-million.

Mimran then started up Joseph Mimran & Associates, providing design, product development and brand positioning services. Among his spinoff business ventures was Pink Tartan with Kimberly Newport-Mimran, whom he recently married. (One Toronto Star writer noted the couple is widely seen as the “king and queen of Toronto's fashion scene.”) The high-end Pink Tartan line is carried in more than 170 stores across North America, including Saks Fifth Avenue.

Joe Fresh was the other successful brainchild of his new company. The line is an example of what some fashion observers describe as the democratization of design, bringing taste and style to the masses.

Joe Fresh was launched in 2006 and reached $400 million in sales a year later. Loblaw has set an aggressive benchmark of $1 billion in 2010, although Mimran points out the figure is more symbolic than a hard-and-fast target.

What is important, he says, is how popular the brand has become in such a relatively short time. In just three years, Joe Fresh is the second-largest clothing label in Canada by unit sales. Mimran points out that it takes top spot in market share in baby wear, second in children's wear and third in women's clothing.

He defines Joe Fresh's target market as women in their “middle 30s, [with] 1.5 kids and time-starved.”

Mimran says his plans are to sustain the Joe Fresh line, which also includes cosmetics, lingerie and hosiery, and “see whether there's one more big idea in me and go from there.”

That idea, too, will likely be a winner.

“Joe has super vision, super taste and great ambition. [He's] probably the smartest man I know,” Sung says. “As his partner for 30 years, he is like my brother, I love him dearly.” ■

Making a DIFFERENCE

One day, Amy Cheng may help patients see the doctor a little faster.

The industrial engineering student says that she hopes to enter the field of health care engineering, which examines improving efficiency within hospital environments.

“Health care engineering looks at such things as how to reduce bottlenecks in hospitals,” says Cheng. “As baby boomers age, this field will become even more necessary to ensure that the seniors get health care attention faster.”

The opportunity to study industrial engineering at the University of Windsor was made possible partly through the Dr. Sourinda Dutta Memorial Scholarship, which provided $1,500 to Cheng during the winter 2008 semester.

“It definitely helped me a lot with my education expenses,” she says. “Winning the scholarship also motivated me to do well. It inspired me to work harder to achieve my academic goals.”

The Dutta Scholarship was funded in the name of a former engineering faculty member who died several years ago. University of Windsor alumni, friends, faculty and staff have contributed to the scholarship to help it grow. Eligible students must demonstrate both financial need and applied skills in industrial engineering. Winning a scholarship enables such students as Amy Cheng to focus on their studies, rather than taking on part-time jobs, to pay for tuition and the other costs of their postsecondary education. Indeed, scholarships are essential in helping deserving students achieve their dreams and go on to make critical contributions to society’s well-being.

“KNOWLEDGE AND INNOVATION ARE THE HALLMARKS OF A FIRST-RATE UNIVERSITY. THROUGH FINANCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE ANNUAL GIVING PROGRAM, WE CAN PROVIDE STUDENTS WITH THE TOOLS TO MEET THE CHANGING DEMANDS OF BUSINESS, INDUSTRY AND SOCIETY AS A WHOLE.” SUSAN LESTER, DIRECTOR OF ALUMNI AFFAIRS

For example, Cheng says: “I had a part-time job in first and second year to pay off expenses, though in third and fourth year my workload increased and I didn’t have time. So this scholarship really helped at a time when I needed it.”

She says she decided to go into engineering because of her interest in business and statistical mathematics. “I thought industrial engineering fit best in helping me to apply both.”

Chen has already gained valuable hands-on experience, including a co-op placement at Hôtel Dieu-Grace Hospital, in preparation for a career where she would like to make a positive difference. And the Dutta Scholarship played a key role in making it possible.

“I just want to say thank you to the Dutta family for the opportunity to receive it. I am very honoured. This has definitely helped me in my postsecondary career,” she adds.

The creation of scholarships such as this is part of the University of Windsor’s Annual Giving Program (AGP). The fundraising campaign, first launched in 1985, includes a direct mail campaign, a phonathon reaching out to alumni, and a canvass of faculty and staff.

The Annual Giving Program has raised millions of dollars since its inception.

Says Susan Lester, director of alumni affairs: “Annual Giving is about people; people give because they want to invest in the future.” Adds Lester: “The University is committed to providing students with an educational experience that will serve them for a lifetime – an experience that no doubt will serve to make the world a much better place.”

Strong alumni support lends credibility to the campaign and encourages outside donations from corporations, foundations and government,” says Lester. “When alumni give, it sends a strong message that the people who know the University of Windsor best believe in its value and want to be a part of keeping it strong.”

Says Samiran Dwivedi BSc '04: “Having spent four wonderful years at the University and after receiving so much from it, giving is the least I can do to enable others to experience the same.”

And Sean Lambert BA '06, BEd '08 says that “Far too often we forget the experiences that have molded us into the successful individuals that we are. For me, giving to my alma mater symbolizes an appreciation for my growth and development as a citizen. Education will determine the success of current and future generations; giving back is a way in which we can all ensure we play a role in the development of young minds.”

In the current economic downturn, the Annual Giving Program is an essential element of the University of Windsor’s formula for success. The campaign has a history of raising much-needed dollars for campus. Since 1985, millions have been generated by thousands of alumni, friends, faculty and staff. The AGP’s importance cannot be overstated as part of the University of Windsor’s vision for this millennium, says University President, Dr. Alan Wildeman:

“Our Annual Giving Program stands as a centerpiece of the commitment of our alumni and friends to the University,” says

President Alan Wildeman. “Year in and year out, these gifts provide much-needed student financial aid, and enrich the education, research and recreational environment of our campus. Each and every donor is adding conviction to the University of Windsor’s reputation as a place where people from all walks of life can find new levels of personal achievement, and a place that is taking action on what our communities and society expects of us.”

Annual Giving Program funds can be targeted to a wide range of initiatives, supporting research labs, athletic teams, and academic programs, for example. Donations can be targeted to a specific faculty, department or program. It is an integral part of the University’s ability to maintain a robust scholarship program, helping UWindsor attract high-calibre students.

“As students, we tend to put education first, giving us less time to build up our finances,” says Samara Mouawad, a fourth-year honours business student. “Receiving a scholarship helps ease that burden, giving us that extra motivation to continue on with our education. It gives us great peace of mind knowing that there is a lot of support out in the community.”

Says Lester: “Knowledge and innovation are the hallmarks of a first-rate university. Through financial contributions to the Annual Giving Program, we can provide students with the tools to meet the changing demands of business, industry and society as a whole.”

What keeps Annual Giving strong is the addition of new graduates, who join the giving circle as soon as they are financially able, she adds. “We welcome our new grads to the alumni family and encourage them to give back to the University, and build it up.” Says Lester: “Annual Giving connects alumni, friends, faculty and staff in the common goal of taking the University of Windsor into the future.” ▣

CALLING ON YOU

Each fall, dozens of bright-eyed and eager University of Windsor students take time away from studying, work and their social lives to punch in literally thousands of telephone numbers from the campus call centre. When the phone is answered, they ask for money to support their university.

Asking for money is not always easy. However, the students struggle to overcome their nerves because they believe that the potential to do something good is well worth the effort.

“As a student caller, I found that many alumni were pleased to speak with a current student,” says Tracy Mugo, fourth year, psychology, who helps out. “We share a common bond – our experiences at the University of Windsor. Even though I couldn’t see their faces, I knew that they were smiling on the other end of the line when sharing some of their cherished memories.

“It was also great to know each night, through our efforts in the call centre, that we were raising necessary funds to help make university accessible to students who could not otherwise afford the opportunity,” she adds. “Who knew a call centre could be so rewarding?”

The Annual Giving Alumni Phonathon will run for several weeks this fall, Sunday through Thursday evenings.

It’s an excellent connection: the students of yesterday and today, coming together to support their school and help the students of the future.

It’s also a chance for alumni to find out what’s been happening at their alma mater, and to update their contact information so that they can receive the alumni magazine, and other information and invitations from the University.

“Our students enjoy speaking with you,” says Mona Dosen, who coordinates the phonathon. “So when the phone rings, we hope you will answer the call and say, ‘Yes’. These students’ futures will be brightened because of your support.”

When your telephone rings one evening this fall, and a cheerful voice says, “Hi, I’m calling from the University of Windsor,” please take a moment to listen. You’ll be glad you did.

University of Windsor students make thousands of calls to potential donors each fall.

To Greater Heights 2008 Stewardship Report

Each year, the University of Windsor celebrates the alumni, partners and friends whose donations make an important contribution to the success of our students.

Given the economic insecurity in 2008, the list of donors on the following pages is especially encouraging.

Our donors realize that their investments in knowledge yield real returns in a renewed economy, a sustainable environment and a more healthy community. At a time when the need has never been greater, these donors enable students to take responsibility for the future – their own future and the future of their community.

Making a difference. Taking responsibility. Thinking forward. Being influential. These are phrases heard and seen a great deal at the University of Windsor these days. These phrases all originated with our students, who come to university full of optimism and ambition. Students today see their years of study and discovery at university as a launching pad into a future of opportunity.

Some of the donors listed in this issue of View have created new scholarships or bursaries to support deserving students. These financial awards demonstrate the confidence we have in our students and have a motivational as well as a practical impact on their success.

Donations and matching dollars totalling almost $2.2 million boosted scholarships in 2008. Needs-based scholarships were eligible for the dollar-for-dollar match from the Ontario Trust for Student Support. Total cash donations of $3.2 million were gratefully received from approximately 5,500 donors.

In the past year, donations of all sizes have endorsed the initiative that produced the Medical Education Building on our campus. We have celebrated gifts to both the capital project and an increase in support for talented students in pre-med programs who include local students from pre-med studies at the University of Windsor accepted to the Schulich School of Medicine and Dentistry – Windsor Program. We are indeed thrilled and proud of their accomplishments. They will be the first-ever to have received a high school diploma, university degree and medical education all together in this area.

This is an outcome of a project that began with community support and, with further commitment, will see the expansion of health and medical education opportunities for our young people.

The future of our community is right here on our campus. You can see it in the medical education building, in the plans for the new Centre for Engineering Innovation, in the science labs, classrooms and study halls. You can feel it in the enthusiasm, optimism and achievements of our students.

For students today, higher education is truly about thinking forward. Through their generosity, our alumni and friends listed in the pages that follow share in the success of these students.

“As a student, any financial support greatly increases the accessibility of our education. It was my honour to receive the Commerce Class of 1964 award. Receiving this helped boost my confidence and also encouraged me to work even harder in order to achieve my future career goals.”

“I have directed most of my giving over the last few years to expanding and beautifying the campus. It’s nice to know that my contributions will help future generations of students and faculty enjoy an even better place to learn. I feel very proud to work at the University of Windsor, and fortunate to be able to show that pride by giving back to the institution.”

WATKINS DEFEATS OLYMPIAN, CAPTURES GOLD AT CANADIAN CHAMPIONSHIPS

Lancer Track and Field standout Derek Watkins bested an Olympian to capture his first gold medal at the 2009 Canadian Track and Field National Championships in Toronto this summer.

The native of Ottawa tied his personal best by clearing 2.18 metres to win the men's high jump ahead of Olympian Michael Mason, who had to settle for the bronze by clearing 2.15 metres.

"It finally came together at the right time," said Watkins. "It's been a really good year and this was a really big situation for me at nationals."

Earlier this year, Watkins won the CIS Men's High Jump title, helping his Lancer team capture the CIS National Championship.

Competing at national seniors for the fourth time, he had never finished higher than third.

"Beating an Olympian was a great feeling," added Watkins.

His efforts have likely earned him a spot on Canada's team for the Francophone Games, which are set for September 27-to-October 6 in Lebanon.

"I'll have to check with Coach Lumley to see how everything fits together with our schedule, but it would be a great honour to be on another national team," Watkins said.

Teammate and Lancer grad Osi Nriagu BComm '05, BEd '07 could also be looking at a spot at the Francophone Games after earning his first medal at national seniors.

Nriagu grabbed a bronze medal in the men's long jump, with a personal best of 7.53 metres.

"I'm obviously really happy with the result," said Nriagu. "I almost called it quits last year. It was a last-minute decision to keep going."

He took the lead with his 7.53 effort on his first jump, though he was eventually passed by Brian Chibudu, who won gold at 7.63 metres.

"Everyone was jumping further and further," Nriagu said. "Getting a medal against the best long jumpers in Canada is all I can ask for."

JIM HUNTER NAMED HEAD COACH OF LANCER WOMEN'S HOCKEY PROGRAM

Jim Hunter is the new Head Coach of the Windsor Lancers Women's Hockey program.

Widely respected as one of the top local coaches in Windsor and Essex County, Hunter previously spent two years leading the Tecumseh Chiefs, taking them to the Sutherland Cup Jr. B Championship in 2008.

For his leadership that season, he was named the 2007/2008 Ontario Hockey Association Coach of the Year and the GOHL Coach of the Year.

An experienced coach at all levels, Hunter also served for four seasons as an assistant coach and director of player development with the Windsor Spitfires in the Ontario Hockey League.

During his time with the Spitfires, Hunter was honoured with the Paul Maurice Award for dedication and sacrifice to the Spitfires organization.

He also served as a scout for the OHL's Guelph Storm for three years and was part of the team's 2004 OHL Championship squad that advanced to the Memorial Cup.

"We are thrilled to have Jim take over as head coach of our Lancer Women's Hockey program," said Gord Grace, director of Athletics. "He has a wealth of coaching experience at all levels and is a proven winner, as evidenced by his work with the Tecumseh Chiefs. He has proven that he can build a successful hockey program and we are looking forward to him leading our Lancer Women's Hockey team into the future."

Also an experienced player, Hunter spent three seasons in the Ontario Hockey League with the Peterborough Petes, Kingston Canadians and North Bay Centennials.

He played one season with the Lancer Men's Hockey program while finishing up his Bachelor of Economics degree at the University of Windsor before playing professionally in the IHL for Toledo.

Coach Hunter says he is excited about the Lancer opportunity:

"I am really looking forward to coming to the University of Windsor and taking over the coaching duties for the Women's Hockey program," said Hunter. "It will be an exciting challenge to build a championship-calibre program and to continue to build upon the great hockey tradition at the University of Windsor."

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

As we hurtle through life, there seems to be little time to reflect on the past.

My volunteer involvement with the Alumni Association has provided me with gratifying opportunities to remember my undergraduate and law school experiences and to more fully appreciate the impact that the University of Windsor has had on me and my family.

Try to imagine your life without the education and experiences that were afforded to you by this great institution and think about the over 90,000 other alumni, living and making a difference in 120 countries around the world. Our graduates are the true, continuing measures of the value and success of this University.

As you should be rightfully proud of your own personal accomplishments, I would also encourage you to be a supporter and an advocate for your alma mater. Contact our Alumni Office to get more involved as a volunteer with our Board and committees in organizing class reunions, special events, student mentoring, and other initiatives.

Take some time to visit the campus to attend theatre, music and athletic events, experience the excitement of the medical school, the new Alumni Field and stadium, and the highly anticipated Centre for Engineering Innovation.

Give as generously as you can in support of our Annual Giving program, and consider making an everlasting financial gift through a scholarship fund. Your involvement and contributions will ensure the continued success and growth of your alma mater.

All the best,

TOM PORTER
Alumni Association President

FAB FIVE GET NOD FROM ALUMNI SPORTS HALL OF FAME

The Alumni Sports Hall of Fame will welcome five new members at its annual ceremonies slated for September 20, 2009. Three will be inducted in the Athlete category – men’s basketball standout Phil Hermanutz, women’s basketball star Alison Duke and Cross Country and Track & Field speedster Doug Tilson. In the category of Administrator/Builder/Coach, both Major Albert Linnell and Bill Miles will be inducted posthumously in recognition of the impact that they had on judo and golf, respectively.

Alison Duke '89, '91

Doug Tilson '91

Phil Hermanutz '81, '82

Major Albert (Bert) Linnell,
MBE, O.St.J, C.D.

William (Bill) Miles

ATHLETES

Alison Duke '89, '91

Duke spent five seasons as a player for the Lancer Women’s Basketball Team (1985-to-1990) and another as assistant coach (1990/91). She was a two-time provincial all-star in both 1988/89 and 1989/90. During the 1988/89 season, she averaged 17.2 points per game, earning recognition as team MVP, and the Banner Shield as the University’s female athlete of the year.

Doug Tilson '91

Tilson ran both cross country and track & field for the Lancers from 1987-to-1990. He established three school records in the 800m, 880 yards and 1000m, capturing 33 medals at various competitions as a Lancer, twice winning gold at the Canadian Championships. Tilson was a four-time OUAA All-Star and three-time All-Canadian. In 1990, he was named the recipient of the Olympic Shield, recognizing him as the top male athlete of the year.

Phil Hermanutz '81, '82, '85

A varsity basketball player from 1978-to-1983, Hermanutz amassed career totals of 929 points and 238 rebounds. He won an OUAA championship in 1978/79 and in 1982/83 and was awarded the Olympic Shield as the top male athlete of the year. He was a two-time OUAA all-star, 1980/81 and 1982/83. During the 1982/83 season he led the OUAA, averaging 25.2 points per game, second in the country, and was award the E.C. Lebel Plaque as the OUAA MVP.

ADMINISTRATOR/BUILDER/COACH

Major Albert (Bert) Linnell, MBE, O.St.J, C.D.

Sensei Linnell did not begin studying the art of judo until he was 52 years old and it quickly became his passion. He earned a third degree black belt, Sandan Yudansha, a feat accomplished by very few. He served as the University’s judo coach from the late 1960s to the early 1980s, winning a team title at the provincial championships in 1967/68. Former students say Linnell was a mentor, advisor – and a grandfather figure. He retired from coaching when he was 78.

Michael "Max" Karcz '53,
Athlete and Coach

Margaret Sidoroff-Canty '99, '08,
Boxing

1958/1959 Lancers Basketball team

William (Bill) Miles

Miles led the Lancer Golf Team as head coach for 16 years during the 1970s and 1980s. During his tenure, the team won three OUAA golf medals, four OUAA silvers and a number of tournament titles. His focus was not on the technical aspects of the game; rather, he concentrated on teaching his athletes how to score low and win. He was presented with the Gino Fracas Award in 1987 as the University's coach of the year.

SPORT ACHIEVEMENT

Michael "Max" Karcz '53 – Athlete and Coach

A three-sport athlete - basketball, football and track & field - Karcz was a top student athlete at Patterson Collegiate Institute. He led teams to WSSA, WOSSA and All-Ontario Basketball Championships. In 1949, he was selected for the All-City High School Football team and was the first recipient of the Royal Arcanum Award as the top high school athlete in Windsor. He won numerous medals in track & field in the sprints and jumps. He went on to play basketball for Assumption College and earned a teaching certificate. He spent 30 years teaching at Vaughan Road Collegiate (Toronto), Walkerville Collegiate, Forster S.S. and Vincent Massey S.S. He coached basketball, football and wrestling teams to a number of city titles as well as multiple undefeated seasons.

Margaret Sidoroff-Canty '99, '08 - Boxing

One of the most accomplished Canadian female boxers, Sidoroff-Canty went undefeated as an amateur (13-0), before bursting onto the professional scene. She won her first professional bout by TKO in just the second round. She retired with a 8-0-1 (split decision) record, and three KOs. She took home three world titles and was recognized as one of the best female boxers in the world. Still involved with the sport, she has continued to coach. Achieving her Level V certification, she has been a Canadian National Team Coach and runs the Border City Boxing Club.

TEAM ACHIEVEMENT

Coached by Hank Biasetti the 1958/59 Lancers Basketball team had a respectable 12-10 overall record. In addition, the team put together nine conference victories and had a good playoff run, winning the OQAA championship.

STAUNCH SUPPORTER TO RECEIVE ASSOCIATION'S HIGHEST HONOUR

The Alumni Association Board of Directors is especially pleased to announce its unanimous decision to honour Richard Peddie as the 2009 recipient of its most prestigious award – the Alumni Award of Merit. A native of Windsor, Peddie graduated from the University of Windsor in 1970 with an Honours Bachelor of Commerce degree. He joined Colgate Palmolive in 1970, holding a variety of positions in sales, market research, industrial engineering, and marketing.

His illustrious career has also included senior positions with General Foods, Hostess Foods and Pillsbury Canada Ltd.

In 1989, he was appointed president and CEO of the Toronto SkyDome and in 1994, he moved on to Labatt Communications Inc., where he was responsible for the overall development of the non-broadcast side of L.C.I.

Peddie became president of the Toronto Raptors basketball team in 1996 and is currently president and CEO of Maple Leaf Sports & Entertainment (Toronto Maple Leafs (NHL), Toronto Raptors (NBA), Toronto Marlies (AHL), Toronto FC (MLS), the Air Canada Centre, Ricoh Coliseum, and BMO Field)

Peddie is a staunch supporter of the University of Windsor, its business school and its athletic programs, illustrated by his most recent major gift of $100,000 toward the naming of Alumni Field.

In 1998, he received the University's Clark Award, presented to outstanding alumni who have made remarkable contributions, bringing honour and recognition to the University. At the Spring 2001 convocation, Peddie received an Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree from the University of Windsor.

He was named the 2002 Odette School of Business Executive-in-Residence and continues to be a tremendous resource to both students and faculty.

The Award of Merit will be presented to Peddie at the Alumni Association's Annual General Meeting & Awards Presentations on November 25. For more information about the award and a list of previous recipients, go to www.uwindsor.ca/alumni

CONNECT WITH CLASSMATES AND FRIENDS – SIGN ON TO VERSION 3 OF THE OLC

Your Alumni Association's On-Line Community (OLC) is celebrating its 10th anniversary by upgrading with an exciting look and feel. This service is a unique opportunity for both students and alumni to network, connect with friends and former classmates, find a mentor or take advantage of the permanent e-mail forwarding feature.

If you're already a member – good for you – be sure to take a look at the new and improved version. If you are not a member – sign up today by visiting www.uwindsor.ca/alumni. It's free to you – compliments of your Alumni Association!

YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE

You can make an impact on your Alumni Association's ability to support students and other University of Windsor priorities. Thousands of alumni, friends, faculty and staff are already doing just that:

- Use your Alumni MBNA MasterCard
- Taking advantage of the discounted home/auto insurance offered exclusively to our membership by TD Meloche Monnex Insurance
- Purchase group/ life/health insurance from the Alumni Association's Manulife program
- Retain the services of ClearSight to assist with your investments and retirement planning solutions
- Frame your diploma through our customized diploma framing service. It's a matter of pride.

The Alumni Association is committed to making a difference in the lives of students from the first day they arrive on campus, to graduation and beyond. "In the last year we granted over 25 requests and nearly $40,000 in funding to student organizations in support of a range of special events, extra-curricular activities and projects" said Richard Dumala, chair of the public affairs committee of the Alumni Association Board of Directors. "We are proud to have supported all of these excellent requests and glad to see so many great initiatives," he adds. "Currently we are refining the procedures we use to make funding decisions more efficiently."

"I don't think people realize just how extensive our awards program is," says Jim Minello, chair of the Associations' awards committee. "In addition to all of our first-year student awards, we annually sponsor, along with the Toronto Chapter, the Robert J. Humphrey Award for two business students valued at $6,500 each, the Alumni Drama Award, as well as five in-course scholarships valued at $500 each, and others."

The Association has also supported two major capital projects in recent years. It donated $500,000 towards the artificial turf of Alumni Field at the new stadium and contributed $50,000 toward the naming of the Alumni Association Group Learning Suite in the new medical education facility.

For more information about services, benefits and programs endorsed by the Alumni Association, go to www.uwindsor.ca/alumni

ANNUAL GOLF TOURNEY BOOSTS SCHOLARSHIPS

One of the longest standing and most popular traditions of the Alumni Association is the Annual Alumni & Friends Golf Tournament. This year, $10,000 of the net proceeds was donated to scholarships in memory of Jeanne Morris, who died last year. The donation is matched by the Ontario Trust for Student Support Program (OTSS) for a total contribution of $20,000.

Morris, a former member of the Alumni Affairs staff, was a lead organizer of the tournament for many years – and although she never golfed – she was passionate about ensuring its success year after year.

The tournament has been held at a number of venues throughout Essex County – Roseland, Fox Glen, Kingsville, Pointe West and, for the past several years, the Ambassador Golf Club. "It keeps things fresh" says Alumni Affairs director Susan Lester. "Many of our participants play every year, so it's nice to change things up now and again. It's also good to see that the tradition is being passed down to a new generation of alumni and friends."

"The support from our golfers and sponsors is tremendous", said Mike Bates, chair of the organizing committee. Says Bates: "Lead sponsors, such as Telus and TD Insurance – Meloche Monnex have been our partners in support of this event for many years. The proceeds are used by the Alumni Association to support both alumni and student initiatives as well as those within faculties and departments."
